Opportunities are still available for ranchers

Jerry Nine
Woodward
Livestock
Auction
Woodward, OK

Almost always this time of year slaughter cows and bulls get cheaper. They are still an extremely good price compared to a normal year.

What I observed this past two weeks that slipped the most in price was a cow that was thin and 900 pounds or less. If a person had some cheap feed or the prospect of wheat pasture you could take that $70 per hundred-weight cow and put 200 pounds on her then she is big enough all the packers want them and if the market goes back to where it was after this September and October run you will advance them

Woodward Livestock Auction

900 Lakeview Dr, Woodward, OK | Jerry Nine 800.442.5548

$35 per hundredweight plus a few will probably have calves.

I was told a rancher was losing some hay bales every few days, so he alerted the law and an officer put a tracker in the middle of a bale. That's good—I hate a thief.

A young Mennonite man who is single works at the sale barn. The woman who runs the café asked him about his friend that used to work here also. He said, "He is married and has a kid now." He said the baby doesn't have much hair yet.

So I said, "He doesn't have much hair yet. He doesn't look like you, does he?" He smiled and said, "No chance."

The other day one of the neighbors came into the café for breakfast and was asking directions to another man's house. So they started telling him, "From the Midway church..." I stopped them and said, "He doesn't know where the church is. Give him directions from the beer joint."

I was sitting by a couple in a restaurant a few days ago and both of them looked about the same size and not exactly skinny if you know what I mean. She orders a nice meal for a farmer working in the field all day then it was time for her husband to order and she says to him, "You could get you a nice Romaine salad."

He said, "Nice try, but no thank you." Then he ordered a nice-sized meal.

Woman Accused of Trying to Stab Man – Charged in Custer County

October 16, 2023 - A Clinton woman has been charged in Custer County District Court after she allegedly attempted to stab a man.

The woman also allegedly bit an officer while she was being arrested.

According to a probable cause affidavit, the incident occurred on the evening of October 4 when police were dispatched to a home in the 300 block of North Ninth Street. There they found a man on top of a woman. That man would tell police that the woman, later identified as being 38-year-old Savannah Rachelle Delaney, had broke into the home while he was sleeping. He said that he awoke to find her standing over him with a knife, and her saying "I'm going to kill you".

The man told police that he was able to overpower Delaney and get her to drop the knife, however he did suffer cuts during the struggle.

The affidavit stated that after being placed in the back of a patrol car, Delaney was able to free one hand from the handcuffs. While an officer was attempting to put the handcuffs back on her, she pushed herself past the officer in an attempt to escape. The affidavit said that while doing so, she allegedly bit the officer on the arm.

Delaney would be charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, first-degree burglary, attempted escape from arrest and assault and battery on a police officer.

Premium Aerospace Center Oklahoma & WTC Partner to Offer Aviation Course

October 16, 2023 - By Landry Brewer - Several students are getting real-world exposure to real-world aviation maintenance.

Premium Aerospace Center (PAC) Oklahoma, with the help of Western Technology Center, is providing a General Familiarization aviation course for new industry employees between October 13 and October 31.

"This training program is essential for aviation professionals to gain knowledge about the structure, systems, and components of an aircraft, enabling them to perform maintenance, repairs, inspections, and troubleshooting effectively," said course instructor Sam Habash.

PAC is providing the students, plus the equipment, tooling, materials, and aircraft required for the course's hands-on training.

WTC is providing the facility, technology, and support for course delivery.

This will be a hybrid course, meaning some instruction will be in-person at WTC, and some content will be taught remotely using broadcast technology.

PAC is fortunate to have helpful state and local partners.

Eddie Compton from the Oklahoma Department of Career and Technology Education helped secure course funding, and Patrick Clannin from Oklahoma CareerTech also helped make this class possible.

"Danny Britton and Kevin Intemann from WTC were also instrumental in arranging this vital training course for us, for which we're grateful," said PAC Director Jose Gonzalez.

Officially, the course is Airbus A320 Family Systems Training, named for the kind of aircraft that the students will learn how to maintain.

"The Airbus A320 is a family of narrow-body, twin-engine commercial aircraft developed by Airbus, a European aerospace manufacturer," Habash said. "It's one of the most popular and widely used aircraft families in the world."

This course gives students exposure to real-world commercial aviation aircraft and their required maintenance. Because aviation maintenance schools' curricula are often outdated, students don't usually receive this kind of up-to-date training.
