Advocates for ranchers need to pay closer attention

Jerry Nine
Woodward, OK

Here we go again. That is almost every yearly meeting when the state's sale barns would get together and talk about issues in the cattle business. One issue appears to try to cram down our throats is a national identification on cattle. They call this committee the "Cattle Health and Well Being Committee."

I'm not against the traceable ID on cattle but instead of cramming it down our throats let's do it only if it is a profitability for the individual cattle man. Not just what the National Cattlemen's Beef Association wants. It seems to me whatever NCBA wants then most all of our state cattle organizations get in line with them and agree.

One problem I have with national ID on all cattle is it simply adds $3 to $5 to all cattle selling at the sale barns which in turn makes sellers more willing to bypass sale barns. And if they allow the feedlots to identify them after they arrive it's not that big of a deal because they run all receiving cattle through the chute anyway, so it gives feedlots an advantage over cattle auctions. And all sellers simply figure total cost to sell one. They never consider what each expense is.

In this rule process they said they would allow movement between adjoining states on pasture-to-pasture permits at the discretion of the involved state animal health officials. Well guess what these rules will be whatever benefits them. It does say it will allow for separate rule making process for cattle under 18 months of age. But read between the lines once they get them over 18 months all required to have ID tag then it is an easy transition to require those under 18 months. And ironically with all this said they never once said they would implement Country of Origin labeling, and why is that? Because the packer and retailer can make more by buying meat from God knows where and acting like it is from the U.S. I challenge you to pull it up online and ask yourself what this accomplishes for the individual cattlemen.

A friend went with his wife grocery shopping. He picked up a case of beer and put it in the cart. His wife said, "What are you doing? Put them back we can't afford that." They continue shopping. Later on she puts a $20 jar of face cream in the basket. The husband said, "What are you doing?" She said, "It's my face cream and it makes me look beautiful." He said, "So does the 24 cans of beer and it's half the price." I just picked my friend up at the hospital. He has a broken nose and three busted ribs.

"Editor's note: Jerry Nine, Woodward, Oklahoma, is a lifetime cattleman who grew up on his family's ranch near Slapout, Oklahoma."

And if the babies aren't swatting flies, he's retaining that weight to go to market with. That's all you've got to sell is weight of the cow.'"

Riot Charges Handed Out to Custer County Inmates

February 12, 2024 - Three inmates at the Custer County Jail face riot related charges after allegedly attempting to instigate a riot inside the jail last month.

According to a probable cause affidavit, the incident occurred on January 3 when 21-year-old Luis Fernandez of Rome, Georgia, 22-year-old Travis Jones, and 40-year-old Mitchell Spearman, both of Clinton, refused to return to their cells after a fight had broken out in the jail.

The affidavit stated that the trio attempted to vandalize the jail by dumping a large trash can full of water from the second floor down a stairway, throwing cleaning bottles, and also allegedly poured cleaning chemicals on themselves and on the floor.

With the aid of deploying pepper balls near the inmates, deputies were able to secure the inmates and place them in their cells. However, the affidavit said that Jones allegedly spit on one of the deputies and kicked him.

A short time later it was reported that the fire alarm to the building would sound and a large amount of water came out of Fernandez’s cell. Upon further inspection it was suspected that the inmate had broken off a fire sprinkler head.

Court records show that charges against the inmates were filed last week and showed that Jones was charged with riot after a former conviction, placing body fluid on a government employee, and assault. Fernandez also received a riot charge and was charged with malicious injury to property, while Spearman received a riot charge.

Lisa Friesen Secures USDA Distance Learning Grant at SWOSU

February 8, 2024 - SWOSU Press Release - Lisa Friesen, Director of the Center for Excellence in Teaching & Learning at Southwestern Oklahoma State University (SWOSU) has been awarded a substantial grant of $1,034,341 over three years through the USDA Rural Development Learning and Telemedicine Program.

Over the next three years, this funding will support collaborative efforts with ten area schools, including Arapaho-Butler, Boone-Apache, Burns Flat-Dill City, Clinton, Cordell, Elk City, Geary, Hinton, Leedey, and Merritt.

The focus of the initiative is to enhance concurrent course offerings through the purchase of advanced technology equipment. The program aligns with the USDA’s key priorities, addressing the challenges faced by rural schools and low population density in these communities. This grant will allow Friesen to work closely with local schools to provide students with the tools needed for effective distance learning.

“This grant expands our partnerships with 10 outstanding school districts to exponentially expand higher education access throughout western Oklahoma. We thank Rural Development for providing us with the opportunity to create learning opportunities that range from credentials to concurrent courses” said SWOSU Provost Dr. Joel Kendall.

This USDA program, with its mission to connect rural communities, promote economic opportunities, and address healthcare needs, aligns with the university’s goal of providing further education in these areas. SWOSU is proud to contribute to these objectives, advancing education accessibility and technological advancement in collaboration with our regional school partners.
