Remember Those Who are Less Fortunate

Jerry Nine
Woodward, OK

Wow, it is Christmas again! I hope it is a happy time for you, and I hope you will stop and realize why we celebrate Christmas.

For some, it is a sad time for many reasons, but I challenge every one of you to try to make this time of year better for a family that is less fortunate or better for someone who dreads this Christmas year. In Lexington, Oklahoma, I volunteer once a month at the prison to allow prisoners to be able to have a church service. The prisoners are allowed to have a few singers, guitars and drums, and one of the prisoners will preach each month.

There are several guys in there who are very committed. Some, because of becoming a Christian in there, have made a huge turn around in their lives. One man whom I got acquainted with this month told me his story of selling and doing drugs both inside and outside of prison until he made a change and is now completely drug-free.

This group puts what little money it has together every year, and we pick out a very poor family and buy gifts for that family. Then we read a letter back to the prisoners from the kids and family that received the gifts. One kid was blind and wrote back in braille. You could tell it made these prisoners very happy to make a young child's Christmas better.

Keep in mind, not all prisoners are bad. Some are just like you and me. Perhaps, they made a mistake.

All the cattle auctions that I know of are shut down for two weeks until after the new year. The cattle market is extremely good.

It will be interesting, as normally when they are stocking the Flint Hills for grass, we get a big push in the market for long-weaned, good-condition steers in March and April, but I'm not sure how we can push the market higher.

I have heard of a few customers buying already for grass and growing them. I hope they all make money.

When a woman says, "Do what you want," you can be quite certain she does not mean that or you will pay one way or another. Stand still. Don't breathe. Do not say anything unless you say you have changed your mind.

My dog said to me, "You tell me no sticks in the house, and then you drag in a whole Christmas tree."

I saw a sign that said, "Some people should use a glue stick instead of ChapStick." Hmm. You don't suppose that sign was made for me, do you?

""Editor's note: The views expressed here are the author's own and do not represent the view of High Plains Journal. Jerry Nine, Woodward, Oklahoma, is a lifetime cattleman who grew up on his family's ranch near Slapout, Oklahoma.

Top Stories of 2024: Western Oklahoma's Most Notable News

December 31, 2024 - From devastating tragedies to inspiring resilience, 2024 was a year that tested the strength and spirit of Western Oklahoma. The region witnessed heartbreak losses, shocking scandals, and natural disasters, balanced by moments of courage, community, and leadership. This retrospective highlights the stories that shaped our communities and defined the year, offering a glimpse into the challenges and triumphs that will linger in our collective memory.

Tragedy Strikes Early in the Year

January saw two devastating incidents in the region. A medical helicopter crash near Hydro claimed the lives of three crew members, including a pilot and medical personnel, during a return trip after patient care transport. In a separate event, a shooting outside an oilfield business near Elk City left one man dead, leading to charges of first-degree manslaughter against a 37-year-old suspect.

Scandals and Safety Threats

February brought scandal to Weatherford, where an assistant director of Parks and Recreation faced charges for soliciting inappropriate images from teens. In April, a bomb threat at Elk City Middle School turned out to be a swatting incident, sparking unnecessary evacuations but no harm.

Weather Woes

In May, an EF-1 tornado tore through Cordell, damaging homes, businesses, and a school. The storm caused one minor injury and left a path of destruction 2.5 miles long.

Rodeo Tragedy and Resilience

September was marked by heartbreak for the Beutler and Son Rodeo Company after contaminated feed led to the loss of nearly 70 bucking horses. However, a survivor, Black Kat, triumphed at the Elk City Rodeo of Champions, demonstrating remarkable resilience.

Ransomware and Election Highlights

As the year progressed, November saw Great Plains Regional Medical Center fall victim to a ransomware attack compromising the personal data of over 133,000 patients. Oklahoma's election results reaffirmed conservative dominance, with Donald Trump decisively winning the state and incumbents retaining their seats.

Leadership and Loss

Rep. Anthony Moore of Clinton was elected Speaker Pro Tempore of the House of Representatives and Rep. Nick Archer of Elk City was elected Vice Chair of the House Republican Caucus in November, reflecting the duo's growing influence in state politics. The year ended on a somber note in December with the tragic death of a 15-year-old Sayre resident in a rollover accident.

Looking Ahead

As 2024 fades into the annals of history, Western Oklahoma stands as a testament to the human spirit's resilience and determination. The challenges faced—whether from tragedy, scandal, or natural disaster—revealed the strength and unity that define this region. From moments of profound loss to remarkable victories, the stories of the past year will serve as lessons and inspirations for the road ahead. As we step into 2025, may the trials of the past fortify our resolve, and may the triumphs remind us of the power of hope, community, and perseverance.

How A Business Makes Money

A business makes money by persuading people to be their customers.

To persuade them, you have to understand how people think and what they'll pay attention to.

Just putting information in print, or online, or on a billboard won't do it. Talking for 30 seconds on the radio or TV about what a business is selling won't do it.

Here at Paragon Communications, the real world laboratory of trial and error has taught us what works and what doesn't. We've also learned a lot by studying experts. Because of all that, we've been able to help a lot of businesses make more money.

When business owners partner with us, they're not just buying access to our audiences. They also get access to what we know how to do—persuade people.

A lot of people say they "do advertising," but the results are disappointing. Here at Paragon Communications, we don't just sell advertising. We know how to persuade people.

That's what a business has to do to make more money.

If you're interested in your business persuading people to be your customers, call the Paragon Communications Advertising Team at 580.225.9696.
