Cattle Prices, Church Surprises, and the Cost of Promises

by: Jerry Nine – Woodward, Okla.

with these higher prices, the one thing we do not need is for a packer to close a packing house.”

In the cattle auction it is hard to find anything to buy that looks like a good buy that has a good chance of making money. One young cattleman asked me the other day, “Do you think the cattle market will ever go down again?” I said yes, “Hopefully, you are sold just higher than before.” Missouri authorities said they will tell.

A press release about changing livestock pest flew in a screwworm. That sparked a selloff in US cattle futures market last week. It’s believed this was done to intentionally sway the market. I then hope these people are punished to the highest extent of the law. Within 30 minutes cattle prices fell over a cut. Plus, you could easily have had cattlemen getting out of positions over this panic. Several years ago, I made a promise to my parents that they would never ever go to a nursing home. There’s just no reason for that. They can just live with my sister.

In church Sunday, I had fallen asleep but suddenly I was awoken when I heard the preacher say “stand up.” So immediately I stood up. Then the preacher said, “Who else will donate $5000?”

Last night my wife was screaming at the TV and I heard her say “Don’t go to the church.” I said to her, “What are you watching?” She said, “Our wedding video.”

Editor’s note: The views expressed here are the author’s own and do not represent the view of The Penny News. Jerry Nine, Woodward, Oklahoma, is a lifetime cattleman who grew up on his family’s ranch near Slapout, Oklahoma.

We have a very good and also very interesting cattle market right now. The question being thrown around where cattlemen were was: “Do you think we can get to 4.00 a pound on fat cattle?”

One that thought how to do it, he was laughed up and down. It blew up, but it did rattle the cattle in the south and north and got some buzz going.

I asked a feedlot manager much more. He really didn’t say he expected it to be at that figure. He made an interesting comment. He named one of the packers that seemed willing to give the 3.30s and probably didn’t argue too hard on all the fat cattle bought.

He said, “Is it good if he is the only one willing to get price up there that high, knowing he was forcing the other packers to use that figure to their agreed price, possibly crippling them?” In that situation, he said, “I’m sure that is right but

ODOT Celebrates Safety Success with District 5 in the Spotlight

June 9, 2025 – The Oklahoma Department of Transportation (ODOT) held its June Transportation Commission meeting on June 4, 2025, honoring the commitment of its crews to workplace safety. ODOT Executive Director Tim Gatz and Assistant Director of Operations Taylor Henderson presented several awards recognizing districts for their safety achievements in 2024.

Among the award winners was District 5, headquartered in Clinton. Led by District Engineer Brent Almquist and Safety Manager Kenneth Carlisle, the district earned the Progressive Excellence Award for showing the most improvement in safety in 2024. District 5 reduced both accident rates and lost workdays across Roger Mills, Beckham, Harmon, Greer, Jackson, Dewey, Custer, Washita, Kiowa, Tillman, and Blaine counties.

Further highlighting District 5's performance, the Sayre Yard Maintenance Crew received the prestigious Director's Safety Award, recognizing their outstanding efforts in training, equipment upkeep, and daily safety practices. Other award winners included District 6, which received the Governor's Safety Excellence Award for maintaining top safety metrics across its field operations in Cimarron, Texas, Beaver, Harper, Ellis, Woodward, Woods, Alfalfa, and Major counties.

Rep. Anthony Moore Reflects on "Strong, Productive" Legislative Session

June 9, 2025 – Oklahoma City, OK – Rep. Anthony Moore (R-Clinton), who served as Speaker Pro Tempore during the First Session of the 60th Oklahoma Legislature, called the session "phenomenal," despite a hectic finish. "We ended with a bit of high intensity and emotion—some turmoil on the last day—but that's to be expected," Moore said. "Looking at the totality of the session, it was phenomenal. The House and Senate worked together better than they have in my five years."

Moore credited new leadership in both chambers for fostering collaboration and noted that even the executive branch worked in tandem on some key issues. "No session is ever perfect," he added. "But if I'm giving it a grade, this is a solid A."

Big Wins in Energy and Budget

Moore pointed to progress on the state budget and energy policy as major wins. He also emphasized that stopping harmful overreaching legislation was equally important. "That alone was a major win for the energy industry," he noted.

Local Sports Broadcasting Access: A Personal Priority

One of Moore's signature achievements was House Bill 1732, which prevents the Oklahoma Secondary Schools Activities Association from signing exclusive broadcasting agreements that block local outlets from airing public school sports.

"It's just asinine that we can't broadcast our own games," Moore said. "Our schools deserve that. Especially for kids like the Canute baseball team — it's ridiculous they didn't get to broadcast the finals." He emphasized that local communities and sponsors rely on that access and said he was proud to carry the bill.

Education Bills Aim to Support Teachers and Students

Moore also highlighted education-related victories. Senate Bill 364, which he co-sponsored, bans corporal punishment for students with disabilities and became law on May 8. In addition, his House Bill 1727 aims to boost teacher retention by expanding eligibility for the state's OHLAP scholarship program to veteran educators, raising the income cap to approximately $186,000 for a family of three.

Looking Ahead

Moore acknowledged ongoing conversations about other legislative topics, including business courts, but remained upbeat. "From top to bottom, this was just a strong, productive session," he said. "I was honored to be part of it."
