A Great Man of Jesus

by: Jerry Nine – Woodward, Okla.

It is with great sadness that I have to say last Saturday my nephew, Josh Nine, 35 years old, passed away after battling cancer for a little over a year. He has a wife and 3 kids ranging from a one year old boy, an eleven year old girl, and a thirteen year old boy. But it is also with thankfulness knowing that he is in Heaven. Two days before he died he told the family that he saw Jesus. The next day all the family was there and he said, "I'm seeing Heaven now". My sister said, "Tell us what it looks like". When he answered he said, "I'm not seeing it now". I wasn't there, but they held the phone up and I got to talk to him. I said, "I have been sorting pairs". He said, "get me 20". I know he didn't die one day before he was supposed to as God often has different plans than ours. I know Josh would want me to say to you, "Get right with Jesus! It's the most important decision you will ever make". Josh said several times if one person becomes a Christian me by being sick, then it is all worth it. His brother told Josh, "When you see Jesus tell him thank you", so about 2 hours before he died he was laying in bed holding his wife's hand and on the other side holding his sister-in-law's hand. He was holding their hands tightly and said the words, "Thank you". Then he released his pressure in their hands and that was the last words he said.

To me this cattle market is on fire. And even if the futures go down a day or two it seems no one pays much attention. Maybe I'm just too conservative but I will probably get used to these new prices about the time it will go down. Even old cows with no teeth, if they are bred 5 months or more they are going back home to raise one more calf. And a lot of ranchers have older cows than they think. I've heard them say those heifers I kept a couple of years ago and guess what, those heifers were 8 years old.

The preacher said a man told him that ever since his business had grown that it was harder for him to write that big of a check to the church as he tries to give 10 percent. He said, "Preacher, would you pray for me on that". So the preacher started praying and said, "Lord, please shrink his business down to where he feels more comfortable writing that size of a check". The man said, "NO, NO, NO!!!"

Editor's note: The views expressed here are the author's own and do not represent the view of The Penny News. Jerry Nine, Woodward, Oklahoma, is a lifetime cattleman who grew up on his family's ranch near Slapout, Oklahoma.

Archer pushes bill to fix court reporter shortage at Corporation Commission

February 12, 2026 • Oklahoma City, OK — State Rep. Nick Archer of Elk City won bipartisan support this week for a House bill aimed at tackling what he calls a “gross understaffing” of court reporters at the Oklahoma Corporation Commission.

House Bill 3177 passed out of the House Appropriations and Budget Natural Resources Subcommittee with a 9-1 vote after Archer said the commission currently has only four of seven full-time court reporter positions filled, and that pay limits are a key reason.

The Corporation Commission handles hearings and legal proceedings tied to utilities, energy and regulatory actions. Court reporters ensure an accurate record of testimony and rulings, but Archer said many trained reporters take jobs in county and district courts where pay and overtime opportunities are better.

HB 3177 would amend current law to let the Corporation Commission’s Director of Administration set salaries for reporters based on experience and duties instead of being stuck at a fixed $53,000 base. That change is meant to let the commission offer more competitive pay and attract and keep qualified reporters.

In testimony before the subcommittee Archer said reporters often leave for county jobs where they can earn more through extra work on transcripts and cases. Allowing competitive pay, he argued, will help the commission fill all seven positions.

The bill’s language would update Section 106.9 of state statute so court reporter salaries at the commission are tied to qualifications and additional duties rather than a strict schedule. It also keeps longevity and certification pay provisions for reporters serving various courts.

Rep. Jim Shaw cast the lone “no” vote in committee, but supporters said the measure responds to a practical problem that affects timely hearings at a key state agency. The bill now moves to full committee consideration at the Capitol.

SWOSU to Host Aerospace and Defense Career Fair March 6

February 12, 2026 • SWOSU Press Release • Weatherford, OK — Southwestern Oklahoma State University (SWOSU) will host an Aerospace and Defense Career Fair on Friday, March 6, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Pioneer Event Center. The event will connect students with employers in aerospace, defense, military leadership, and related industries.

Several organizations have confirmed attendance, including Premium Aerospace Center, Orizon Aerostructures, AeroCore X, Torch Technologies, Delaware Resource Group, Air Evac, the Army National Guard Officer Leadership Development program, and the Stafford Air and Space Museum, which will be recruiting Stafford Scholars. The U.S. Air Force Sustainment Center will also attend for civilian recruiting. The center manages operations at Tinker, Hill, and Robins Air Force Bases.

Students are encouraged to attend the Career Fair to meet employers, explore career paths, and learn about internships and professional opportunities. Employers will be available throughout the day to discuss roles and pathways within these industries. Area high schools and career technology centers will attend, and SWOSU academic departments will share information about related degree programs. Admissions and Recruitment staff will also be available to provide information about educational opportunities at SWOSU.

The event demonstrates SWOSU’s ongoing efforts to connect students with employers and industries that have a strong presence in Oklahoma, as well as providing opportunities to explore professional pathways while pursuing their degrees.

Organizations interested in registering to participate in the Aerospace and Defense Career Fair can do so at no cost and should contact Chad Kinder at chad.kinder@swosu.edu.

Pedestrian Killed in Early Morning Crash North of Altus

February 11, 2026 • Altus, OK — A 23 year old Altus man was killed in a collision early Tuesday morning approximately four miles north of Altus, according to the Oklahoma Highway Patrol.
