Southern Cattle Border Reopens

by: Jerry Nine – Woodward, Okla.

The USDA had announced a coordinated phase reopening of southern cattle ports contingent on Mexico's adherence to the joint action plan. Beginning August 24, 2026 USDA will open the Douglas AZ port of entry to cattle trade. Then if all goes as planned will initiate the operational steps for opening at Sata Teresa NM and Columbus NM. Every animal entering the US through these ports will undergo a full USDA inspection to ensure it is free of any signs of New World screw worm. Their goal is pushing this pest back to the Darien Gap.

The closest active case to the Douglas AZ port is 325 miles. The reopening timeline will remain flexible and may be adjusted based on Mexico's progress in meeting the action plan. The opening of ports may be paused if USDA identifies increased risk. However we have several cases in the US.

Secretary Rollins announces growing momentum behind USDA's product of USA label with 10 new companies joining initiative. This would be good and it must be that packers and retailers can not repackage a foreign product and call it USDA. They should have had to label what country it originated a long time ago. But the powerful packing industry could make more money by not labeling it so they convinced a lot of state and national cattle organizations that this would not be in the cattleman's best interest. And I promise you they paid a lot of money to individuals and organizations to go along with it.

I found it very odd last week when our futures slipped $8.00 a cut without any big news. You can call me suspicious but I would bet you several had inside information early of opening the border.

Futures took a large tumble on Monday. And situations like this, the fund traders control the market and often has little or no rhyme or reason with cattle numbers.

Did you realize that in the span of 10 years, 115 people died in weight lifting accidents. And only one person died eating donuts in 10 years. Make good choices.

My wife called and said can I just be a stay at home wife? I said I don't care what you do once you get off work.

My sister called and said just take life one day at a time. I said what else can I do? Skip Tuesday?

I called a female friend of mine from Mooreland and told her she better be careful that over there where she lives there is a woman driving the wrong way on the highway. She said no there are about 20 of them going the wrong way.

Editor's note: The views expressed here are the author's own and do not represent the view of The Penny News. Jerry Nine, Woodward, Oklahoma, is a lifetime cattleman who grew up on his family's ranch near Slapout, Oklahoma.

Cheyenne and Arapaho Tribes Break Ground on New Lucky Star Casino Resort in Elk City

Elk City, OK – A groundbreaking ceremony was held Friday for the Cheyenne and Arapaho Tribes' newest Lucky Star Casino development in Elk City, marking the beginning of what tribal leaders describe as the most ambitious project in the casino brand's history.

The new Lucky Star Casino, located on South Eastern Avenue, will be built in multiple phases and is expected to become a major destination for western Oklahoma.

Phase 1 of the project will feature a 56,000 square foot casino with approximately 750 gaming machines, a 100 room hotel totaling 65,000 square feet, a food court, steakhouse, indoor swimming pool, and fitness center.

Future expansion plans include a convention center, family entertainment arcade, and outdoor pool in Phase 2. Phase 3 will add a full service convenience store complete with a trucker's lounge and driver facilities, while Phase 4 will include an RV park.

Friday's ceremony began with a traditional drum performance, followed by an opening prayer from Cheyenne and Arapaho tribal member and pastor Delford Whitecrow Jr.

Opening remarks were delivered by Bill Tallbear, Compiance Officer for the Cheyenne and Arapaho Tribes. Speakers also included Elk City Mayor Micah Kilhoffer, Lucky Star Casinos CEO Charlie Welbourne, Cheyenne and Arapaho Tribes Lieutenant Governor Hershel Gorham, and Governor Reggie Wassana.

Kilhoffer said residents have eagerly anticipated the start of construction for more than a year.

"The most common question that I have gotten in the last 12 months has been, 'When are they going to break ground on the casino?' Well, today's that day."

The mayor said the project represents much more than a new entertainment venue, pointing to its expected economic impact on Elk City and the surrounding region.

"Today marks the beginning of phase one of an exciting development that's going to bring jobs to our community, attract visitors to our community, strengthen our local economy, and really just open up doors for everyone in our entire region."

Kilhoffer also spoke about the importance of continued growth in rural Oklahoma.

"Small towns in America are really dying. They're struggling bad. Some of them are almost evaporating. But here in Elk City, we just continue to prove that story wrong. We're thriving. We're not just surviving. We're building, we're investing, and we're pushing forward."

He praised the Cheyenne and Arapaho Tribes for their investment and longstanding relationship with the city.

"The Cheyenne and Arapaho Tribes have a rich history and a resilient spirit and a strong commitment to their people and the communities they serve. This hotel and casino is really a testament to that."

Kilhoffer added that Elk City values its partnership with the tribes and looks forward to welcoming the completed development.

"We believe in strong partnerships, and we're more than proud to stand alongside the tribes. We consider you neighbors, partners, and friends. Today's groundbreaking begins something special. We're building a destination for local visitors, creating opportunities, and providing something for the entire region."

Lucky Star officials describe the Elk City location as the company's "most aggressive project to date," with construction beginning immediately on the first phase of the development.

Route 66 Centennial Celebration Draws Crowd to Clinton

Clinton, OK – The Oklahoma Route 66 Association marked the 100th anniversary of America's Mother Road on Saturday by expanding its traditional Hall of Fame ceremony into a larger Route 66 Centennial Celebration at the Frisco Conference Center in Clinton.

The event brought together Route 66 enthusiasts, community members, authors, artists, and tourism supporters for an afternoon celebrating Oklahoma's role in the history of the iconic highway.

A highlight of the celebration was the induction of new members into the Oklahoma Route 66 Hall of Fame. As part of the ceremony, Lt. Gov. Matt Pinnell was recognized as a special Centennial Hall of Fame inductee for his efforts to preserve and promote Route 66 throughout Oklahoma. Organizers also announced one living and one posthumous Hall of Fame recipient during the ceremony.

The Oklahoma Route 66 Museum and the Oklahoma Historical Society joined the celebration with historic exhibits highlighting the legacy of the Mother Road. Visitors also enjoyed exclusive Centennial merchandise, book signings by Oklahoma Route 66 authors, artwork from Route 66 artist Lynne Chastain, classic automobiles, door prizes, and family-friendly activities.

The annual celebration highlighted Route 66's continued importance to Oklahoma tourism and local communities while encouraging visitors to explore the Oklahoma Route 66 Museum.
